rejuvenate
deeply your skin
without injection

Who has never looked in the mirror and been surprised to find another little wrinkle? Who would not dream to have smooth legs or have the stretch-marks from the last pregnancy improved?

The opportunity to achieve all these results is not only the wish of many people, but is also a reality thanks to Antara, an aesthetic treatment by biomechanical means, also called the virtual syringe that provides deep hydration for the skin through a bioelectrical membrane that makes the marks of the relentless passage of time fade.

■ Although the name virtual syringe might be somewhat off-putting, it must be pointed out that Antara is completely painless. It only requires an electrode to be placed on the arm and a "head" connected to a bottle with a mixture of components. During the treatment, the body will only notice a slight tingling sensation and a contraction of the muscles, similar to the application of any other kind of passive exercise method.

■ Amongst the multiple advantages of Antara, we would say that it is the most complete and effective anti-aging treatment for the skin and possesses an exceptional capacity for toning up the facial muscles and tissue. But what is the secret? The recipe is simple: the combination of a number of ingredients, mixed in a conductive gel and complemented by electrostimulation. This way the skin is regenerated and tightened, by activating the collagen and improving the defence system of the tissue. In this way the skin looks fuller, smoother and more luminous, which by the end of the treatment gives the effect of a minilifting.

■ But Antara is not only used for eliminating the marks of time, but it is also the greatest enemy of the orange-peel appearance. Not in vain has it been specially conceived for eliminating the cellulite that is so bothersome to all women. The mixture of ingredients of which it is composed stimulates all the stages of the process known as "fat burning", while activating the collagen in the skin.

In short, it could be said that by undergoing the full treatment, any excessive curves would be reduced and the orange-peel effect would be improved.

■ Lastly, the fact that Antara combats the loss of collagen makes it a very effective treatment against wrinkles and cellulite, but also against stretch-marks and flabbiness. The procedure consists of activating the collagen that protects and stimulates the protein barrier, firming the fibres that act as a support. In this way the stretch-mark, and the rest of the skin, achieves a firmer, smoother appearance.

■ Antara is so effective that the changes are noticeable right from the first session, although the shock treatment should be continued until 12 sessions have been completed. Furthermore, we recommend repeating the process twice a year with a maintenance session at least once a month.

■ Science has discovered a time machine that is capable of erasing the signs of aging, a method of recuperating the beauty of eternal youth, with the only exceptions being pregnant women and people wearing pacemakers, who must not undergo this treatment. For anyone else, Antara is waiting for the opportunity of rejuvenating your skin.
